

GREEN
SPACE
TODAY

building on sustainability

TM

Green Space Today is the premier online magazine and business resource that connects people, companies, institutions, and cities that value green building and sustainable practices.

Information for Prospective Writers

Write for Green Space Today!

Are you an environmental enthusiast or a green building professional with writing experience and a passion for sustainability?

If so, and you are looking to build your portfolio, gain exposure on a local and national level, and inform Green Space Today's readership about noteworthy green developments, please e-mail our editorial department at editorial@GreenSpaceToday.com with a writing sample, your resume, and professional references.

Are you an owner (or an owners' representative/municipal representative) that has incorporated green building and other sustainable practices into a residential, commercial, institutional, or municipal property?

If so, and you would like to express advocacy for the benefit of your community, customers and prospects, and (or) other property owners/cities, please e-mail us at editorial@GreenSpaceToday.com with your credentials and information regarding your intent to write for Green Space Today.

Note: Please review Green Space Today's 2009 Editorial Calendar to review geographic areas of note as well as monthly topics and themes.